How can it help you with the post COVID workplace?

- Safely stagger employees back to the office by setting up shift patterns to maintain social distancing
- Optimise the space allocated to each shift by comparing the behaviour and workspace requirements of each shift
- Maximise the number of employees that can safely work on site

How can it help you with longer term space planning?

- Efficiently identify which workspace assets are most commonly used by each department
- Use objective data comparisons to supports strategic business decisions, such as restacking floors and scaling up or down in premise size
